A Good Time Coming
But Rather Slowly
Our Earth a Gun
The Bee and Lady

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920)

Hiram Johnson says: "It doesn't make any difference if a few politicians, sitting in the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago, say, 'The public be damned'; the time is coming when the people will come into their own."

It makes SOME difference, although it will not make the slightest difference ten thousand or even five hundred years hence.

Neglecting the opportunity to nominate and elect Hiram Johnson was a calamity. He might have prevented a bad panic that threatens the future and might have prevented something considerably worse than panic.

When steam is low in the boiler sitting on the safety valve is not especially dangerous.

But men got up steam in the war; it is still up. Men sitting on the safety valve, saying "the public be damned," are dangerous to themselves and to others that must feel the explosion.

Politics that organized money administers to the United States just now is like giving opium to a man with a headache. You stop the headache, but establish the opium habit, which is worse.

However, Johnson says he is through with politics for the moment, and that settles it "for the moment." The public must console itself, singing a verse of that valuable song, "The Good Time Coming."

"There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
We may not live to see the day,
But earth shall glisten in the ray
Of the good time coming.
Cannon balls may aid the truth,
But thoughts a weapon stronger;
We'll win our battle by its aid;
Wait a little longer."

Yes, but how long, O Lord.

Senator Penrose says the Democratic convention will be "the worst bossed convention ever assembled," and "intimidated by Wilson from Washington."

The public is used to that and Penrose's statement that there are "six Cabinet officers and other payroll statesmen on the ground," is interesting in a country that doesn't seem to have government enough to keep railroads running.

You have read of the new gun, using no explosives, driven by centrifugal force. Swing a tin pail full of water swiftly around your head, let go, and you will know how centrifugal force works. Centrifugal means "flying from the centre." This column is not for the learned.

The new gun will shoot eleven thousand shots a minute, "an improvement" of 2,000 per cent. on ordinary machine guns.

The power of Niagara, or the tides, steam or electricity, can be used to operate these guns. No wasting of valuable chemicals, including nitrogen. That will be an improvement. And the guns should kill rapidly, thus making war shorter. That would be an improvement.

If it were not for the power of gravitation, which holds us to our earth, that earth, a centrifugal gun rolling around at the rate of a thousand miles an hour, would shoot us all off into space like centrifugal bullets.

A gigantic, high-powered, steel flying machine, using one big engine to develop centrifugal power, traveling through space, surrounded by a storm of bullets, eleven thousand to the minute, ought to be a pleasant weapon of civilization. This country will probably watch England build it, an American having invented the gun.

Pathe, Irish chauffeur, driving the inspector-general of constabulary in Dublin, continued running his car safely at seventy miles an hour after he had been shot through both legs.

A lady, driving her car twenty-five miles an hour was stung on the nose by a bee and immediately ran into a telegraph pole.

"Man is superior to woman," the foolish person says. Not at all. The chauffeur was PREPARED for the bullets. He had time to make up his mind. The lady was NOT prepared for the bee, her muscles and nerves worked spasmodically before she had a chance to think.

Ten thousand women would go straight ahead with bullets in them with time to prepare. Ten thousand men would steer into a telegraph pole if a bee stung them unexpectedly.

If people don't want prohibition as it stands in the eighteenth amendment, if they prefer a modification of the Volstead bill, condemning whiskey, discouraging dives, while permitting the European idea of temperance, they are able to make the politicians know what they want.

Just lately they have told Mr. Volstead that he is to stay home making himself useful on the farm in Minnesota.

In Maine they have sent Governor Miliken to private life—he being the most active pure water politician in the State.

It doesn't pay to go too far, even along the line of thrusting your own virtue on others. Probably a compromise, based on common sense and the experience of centuries, will be reached after a few more politicians have learned that the people like to be consulted.

1ST DRAFT OF WILSON PLATFORM PLANKS

Says Ireland's Hope Is in League; Favors Teachers and Postal Employes

(Copyright, 1920, by International News Service.)

San Francisco, June 25.—President Wilson's political representatives in this pre-convention scene are today stoutly demanding that the now famous Virginia platform foreign relations plank stand as the Democratic party's statement of the peace and League of Nations issue, the only changes being for the purpose of clarification, so that it may be better understood by the man in the street.

The International News Service is able today to divulge the tentative Irish, labor, compensation for teachers, soldiers' and sailors' bonus and compensation for postal employes platform planks as approved by the administration. If the Wilson forces prevail in the committee on resolutions the following planks will be adopted:

IRELAND AND THE LEAGUE.

IRELAND—"We express our profound sympathy for the rights and aspirations of small nations and of races subject to alien domination. The striving of these for self-government appeals to the sense of justice of the world. The centuries-old struggle of Ireland for self-government is today one of the unhappy problems disturbing mankind. To her the League of Nations offers, for the first time in history, an international tribunal before which she may obtain an impartial hearing.

"We pledge that when American representatives to the League of Nations are appointed they shall be instructed to bring the affairs of Ire-

Accused of Breaking Up Two Homes

Former Mayor of Dover, N. H., Charges Boston Man Won Love of War Bride.

Marion Taylor Beckwith, artist and divorcee, who has been sued for divorce by a former war hero.

Intimate details of alleged automobile trips to country inns and of Bohemian parties in a Back Bay art studio will be made public at the trial of the divorce suit entered by former Mayor Fred H. Beckwith of Dover, N. H., overseas veteran, wealthy manufacturer of food dainties and clubman, against his war bride, Marion Taylor, a young and pretty Boston artist and divorcee whom he married on the eve of his departure for France.

Two homes have been broken and a World War romance shattered by a heart triangle which involves the alleged infatuation of Mrs. Beckwith for Harold A. Galpin of No. 479 Belmont street, Belmont, a Boston leather salesman, member of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks, who has a wife and child in Belmont, and who is named as corespondent in the suit entered by Beckwith.

The suit filed by the law firm of Hughes & Dow in the Superior Court for Stafford County, in Dover, charges Mrs. Beckwith with infidelity and names Galpin. It is returnable in September. Galpin is reported to have admitted that his wife was suing for divorce.

On the docket in the Middlesex County Superior Court at East Cambridge appears a record of a suit for divorce entered by Leona W. Galpin against Harold A. Galpin of Belmont. Mrs. Galpin charges cruel and abusive treatment, and states that the couple have a five-year-old son, whose custody the mother seeks. She also states that they lived in Boston, Watertown and Belmont.

At Shattuck Inn, in East Jaffrey, N. H., where Beckwith, accompanied by detectives, forced an entrance into his wife's apartments last Saturday, the names of "H. A. Galpin, Watertown, Mass.," and "Mrs. Fred H. Beckwith, Belmont, Mass.," were found on the register.

Her parents live in Belmont at No. 43 Springfield street. They formerly lived in Dorchester, where Mrs. Beckwith attended the Dorcheser, High School. Later she studied art and had an income making advertising drawings. She is twenty-eight and was divorced by Earle M. Selfridge of Melrose in 1915. Selfridge was granted a decree nisi in the Middlesex County Court December 24, 1915, for desertion, and the decree was made absolute in December, 1916. Selfridge was given the custody of a minor daughter, who now lives with him.

LABOR LEADERS HURT IN AUTO

Three Pinned Under Machine Which Upsets After Skidding on Boulevard

Three prominent Boston labor leaders were seriously injured today when an automobile in which they were riding overturned on Lynn boulevard in Lynn, pinning them underneath.

The injured, who are at Lynn Hospital, are:

MICHAEL YOUNG of No. 26 Denton terrace, Roslindale, business agent for the Iron Workers' Union, suffering from a fracture of the collar bone, puncture of the left lung, fracture of two ribs and lacerations.

WILLIAM H. POPE of No. 84 Faulkner street, East Boston, secretary of the Iron Workers, internal injuries and multiple bruises.

JOHN FOX of No. 188 Cross street, Malden, business agent of the United Building Trades Union, cuts about the head and face and possible fracture of the skull.

Young was driving the machine, which capsized at the corner of the Boulevard and Commercial street.

According to Chief of Police Tucker of Beverly, who was passing and saw the accident, Young tried to dodge several bricks in the middle of the highway, and in steering away from them swung the machine up against the curb with terrific force. It skidded half way across the street before upsetting, and as the three occupants fell out they were caught underneath.

Chief Tucker, with the aid of other witnesses, lifted the machine from the bodies of the injured and then informed the Lynn police.

BRAVES IN DOUBLE BILL

Stallings' [illegible] Hard to Take Brooklyn Into Camp

Braves Field, June 25.—So that everybody would realize that Summer is really here, the Braves and Dodgers staged a double-header this afternoon. The rivals incidentally planned to furnish as many thrills as were predicted for the boat race crowd at New London.

The Braves didn't plan to show much hospitality to the visitors. They won enough games from the Cardinals to increase their desire for diamond victories. They let it be whispered around the "Home of Empty Bleachers" that they intended to grab two perfectly good ball games.

Anything is possible nowadays when the Stallings tribe engages in ball games. Sometimes they lose, while on other occasions they play the grand old game as if they invented the pastime.

HOUSE BLOWN UP BY POWDER BLAST

Waterbury, Ct., July 25.—The explosion of a quantity of powder in the cellar of the home of Albino Ribos at No. 23½ Railroad Hill street early today shook up the neighborhood, blew some of the windows out of the house and threw Ribos, his wife and half a dozen boarders out of their beds.

Soon after the explosion, Michael Titoe, a neighbor, was arrested by the police charged with intimidation, and on suspicion of having been the cause of the exposion.

In the police court he was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Larkin after Ribos, his wife and some of the boarders had testified that Titoe had threatened Ribos and his wife because they continued to work in the Benedict & Burnham factory during the strike of factory workers.

MIDNIGHT WALKOUT PLANNED

Report Railroad Men at All Eastern Points Will Quit Work Tomorrow Night

By International News Service.

Washington, June 25.—Switchmen in all the Eastern yards have voted to walk out at midnight tomorrow, union leaders were advised today.

At a secret session held at midnight yesterday switchmen employed in the Potomac and Baltimore yards decided almost unanimously to join the walkout.

Similar action, it was learned, was taken at meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Jersey City and other railroad centres in the East.

Representatives of the unions and the Department of Labor who have been working with the men urging them to wait for the Railroad Labor Board's decision report them deaf to appeals.

"We tried to show them that the President's message to the board would bring speedy action and that an award was certain within a week," said one of these representatives today. "But they will not be moved from their determination to strike.

"They declare they are weary of promises and point to the reports that the board is deadlocked. It must be admitted they have waited patiently and for a long time. They

British to Execute Those Who Resist

London, June 25.—Persons who resist the disarmament order of the British military authorities at Londonderry will be executed, according to a Londonderry dispatch to the Evening News today.

The dispatch said that 4,000 British troops were being concentrated at Londonderry and that machine guns would be planted to sweep the principal streets in the event of future disorders.

More armored cars are on their way to the city. All pedestrians suspected of carrying arms will be searched and their arms seized. General Campbell has arrived at Londonderry.

SALEM'S GREAT FIRE SIX YEARS AGO TODAY

CRIMSON'S DEFEAT IS HARD BLOW

In Two Contests on Thames Yale Wins Decisive Victories

By International News Service.

New London, June 25.—Yale's brawny oarsmen scored heavily in the first two races against Harvard today, winning both freshman and junior varsity races in decisive fashion.

The outcome of the first two races gave Yale supporters added confidence and there was plenty of money offered that Yale would sweep the river. The Blue varsity has been a prime favorite over Harvard all along.

The Crimson crew was not beaten without a battle in the junior varsity, for Harvard's oarsmen closed the gap 200 yards from the finish only to find that Yale had a sprint left. The bulldog finished with a supreme effort, winning by a full length.

The freshman race was a hard jolt land before that great tribunal for adjudication."

LABOR—"The question of industrial peace is our greatest domestic problem. It is the greatest problem of the world.

"Labor constitutes the largest element of our population. On its welfare depends the prosperity of all. High wages and good living conditions constitute the bulwark of civilization. We recognize that the solution of these questions is dependent more upon economic principles than upon sympathetic legislation.

LABOR AND LIVING COST.

"Statutes are necessarily limited in their efficacy. The elimination or regulation of child labor, the protection of sailors on the high seas, the encouragement of industrial insurance in all interstate employment, and the suppression or regulation of monopolies that control the cost of living are, however, subjects that call for direct action.

"The organization of labor should be encouraged. The development of these organizations under responsible leaders is a great insurance of industrial peace.

"They add to the dignity, independence and efficiency of labor. They protect labor against exploitation. They develop a wholesome system of collective bargaining.

"We believe that the government should create a Federal tribunal for the purpose of arbitration, which tribunal should have the right to conduct investigation of industrial disputes and publish findings and reports.

"While its judgment, unless under voluntary submission, should in no sense be compulsory, or interfere with liberty of action, we believe that it would be a great moral force in preventing and settling industrial conflicts."

COMPENSATION OF TEACHERS—"The strength of this nation, its future, its hope, rest on the teaching of youth.

TEACHERS "NEGLECTED."

"This sacred trust has been confided to the teaching forces of our country. That the teachers should be adequately compensated for this vast responsibility must be evident. That the nation has shamefully neglected these faithful servants is beyond dispute.

"We pledge all the power of government, shall our ticket be successful, and its moral force to procuring adequate remuneration for every teacher in the land."

DEBT TO OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS—"Our people owe to the soldiers and sailors who went forth to preserve the rights of this nation and the liberties of mankind every consideration.

"Those who suffered from wounds and sickness should have behind them every dollar of American property, as should those who shall hereafter become sick and unable to support themselves fully or partially.

"We believe that the vast majority of those who returned uninjured do not feel that the services that they rendered to mankind can be compensated by a cash bonus; that the honor and glory that forever attaches to their achievements stands superior to price.

"We believe, however, that it is the duty of this nation, from its resources of land, to offer abundant opportunity to our soldiers and sailors. We believe that the civil service law should be amended so that offices of public employment that shall become vacant should, by a separate examination be first offered to the soldiers and sailors of the war."

COMPENSATION FOR POSTAL EMPLOYES—"No instrument of civilization and progress has been greater than the postal service, which, besides transmitting personal communications between citizens, diffuses written and printed knowledge and information to all the people. In addition to being the greatest medium of business communication, its educational and moral influences are beyond computation.

"The men in this service perform this mighty task with loyalty to the public beyond praise.

"The compensation of these employes is utterly disproportionate to the work performed. Their neglect constitutes a stain upon the nation.

"We pledge our nominee for president and our senators and representatives to at once provide remuneration on a proper American scale of wages for these faithful servants."

REVISE LEAGUE PLANK.

The League of Nations plank which the friends of the President here are today revising, so as to make it simple and comprehensive, does not in any way depart from the President's oft-repeated plan, and coupled with it is a thorough-going endorsement of Woodrow Wilson.

The league is characterized as "the surest if not the only practicable means of maintaining the permanent peace of the world and terminating the insufferable burden of great military and naval establishments."

It is declared that it was for this that "America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest."

Upon this ground will come the great test of Democratic party solidarity. Senators Walsh (Massachusetts) and Reed and William Jennings Bryan will lead a grim battle against the administration measure.

Senator Glass and Chairman Cummings with Secretary Colby and Attorney General Palmer will represent the President and confidence is expressed by their friends that they can swing the measure through.

In effect the foreign relations feature of the platform makes the great issue before this convention, clear cut and predominant—Woodrow Wilson. Within the resolutions committee room will be enacted before next Wednesday events which may seal the fate of the two-year peace-plan controversy.

The second test of party solidarity will be precipitated by the prohibition issue. There is unmistakably a strong force here against any plank whatsoever on the liquor question. Liquor interests have their lobbyists planted in every hotel.

BATTLE AGAINST WETS.

Bryan and several other strong men will give battle against any attempt to moisten the party platform. The Tammany delegation is credited with having a light wine and beer platform to propose. Boss Murphy is the usual Sphynx on all matters.

There is a story about that Taggart of Indiana is coming in dry as a bone. One tentative plank on the liquor question, said to be favored by certain administration followers and others, advocates the resuming of the manufacture of light wines and beers. It approves the abolition of saloons, taking the position that they were a social and economic menace.

But it holds that the Volstead act in its present form is something of an injustice to poor men. It is pointed out that when prohibition became operative the law permitted all men to purchase as much liquor as their means permitted, provided it was kept in the home and consumed there.

"In this way," the tentative plank reads, "the poor man has been discriminated against because, not having funds, he could not stock up with liquor and, therefore, only the rich are now privileged to drink. If light wines and beers were permitted, the discrimination no longer would exist."

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The administration forces will favor woman suffrage without qualification, and certain elements here are strong for a plank calling for tax reductions and revisions, a bitter fight brewing on the question of tax on luxuries. Evidence today was that the convention, if it waits for the report of the resolutions committee before starting nomination balloting will be seriously delayed, and all of the wiseacres were of the opinion that the Democratic candidates would be named in the wee small hours of the morning of the Glorious Fourth of July.

Hoover for Covenant Without Article Ten

By International News Service.

New York, June 25.—Herbert C. Hoover today in a formal statement appealed to the Republican party to take a definite stand on the League of Nations as a party platform in the coming campaign.

He urged elimination of Article X. from the Peace treaty and the immediate adoption of the covenant with Article X. deleted.

Mr. Hoover urged the Republicans to advocate ratification without Article X. in order to force the Democratic party into the position of defending "A practical military alliance which only further endangers the real value of the League."

Mr. Hoover declared a League of Nations, which is the "product of the liberal ideas of the world," would have no place for any threat of military force such as is implied in the present Article X. He says he has favored reliance on such moral and economic pressure as may be necessary to accomplish international peace without resort to arms and declared international disarmament could only be accomplished in this manner.

IOWA DELEGATES ARE ROBBED

Train Bandits Loot Baggage; Bay State Party Well Guarded

By CHARLES O. POWERS.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 25.—Robbers, real movie train robbers of the advanced modern school, visited the special section of the Iowa delegation to the Democratic National Convention early today. The Iowans occupied three cars in the rear of the section inhabited on the trip by the delegates from Massachusetts, Vermont and Rhode Island.

It was at Grand Canyon, Colo., that the thriller was staged. The Iowa folks were not sleepy. The gorgeous scenery of the Royal Gorge had exhilarated them, and they left their cars for a stroll. While admiring the moon, two small, wiry, quick acting fellows, boarded one of their cars at either end and made a search of the luggage.

Chicago, June 25.—The League of Nations plank in the Republican platform means the ultimate acceptance of the League, with reservations, former President Taft asserted in a statement here today.

"When Republican victory comes in November, the first thing to do will be to make peace, and that means to accept the League with the reservations," said Mr. Taft.

"The plank was drawn by Elihu Root, who is a strong supporter of the League, and who is now in Europe helping to get the League into working order."

Concerning the San Francisco convention, Mr. Taft said he did not believe the Democrats "will follow Edwards and adopt a wet plank."

CANOPIC STOWAWAY ESCAPES GAS POISON

An unidentified stowaway on board the White Star liner Canopic, lying at quarantine, barely escaped asphyxiation today when the ship's officers discovered him just prior to turning on the deadly cyanide gas to fumigate. The ship had been cleared of everybody when the stowaway was found in the deepest compartment. Bathing and sterilizing the garments of the 1,300 immigrants on the vessel will be finished by nightfall. Fumigation will also be completed by night, allowing her to move up to her berth at Commonwealth Pier tomorrow morning.

have got the notion that the board is unable to agree on the switchmen's demands. We have no answer to their argument that the cost of living is rising while the board is deliberating.

"Shopmen and other railroad workers affiliated with the railway employes' department are being counselled by their leaders to 'sit tight a while longer.'"

"We are urging the members of our international unions to wait for the Labor Board's decision," said John Scott, secretary of the railway employes' department. "We are confident of a favorable award and feel the President's appeal will move the board to speed up action.

"We may protest against the decision of the board making increases retroactive from May 1 instead of March 1, but we do not expect any trouble from the men in the internationals affiliated with the American Federation of Labor unless the board's award is very unsatisfactory.

"We do not think the board is held up by any serious differences and with a little more time a satisfactory agreement will be worked out, in our opinion."

New Haven Trainmen Vote to Return to Work

New Haven, Ct., June 25.—John L. Rowe, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the New Haven Road, announced this afternoon that the local lodge of trainmen, which includes also the switchmen in the yards here, had voted at a meeting this morning to return to work. The result of the action was communicated to General Manager Bardo.

The action of the men followed the issuance of an order by the superintendent of the New Haven and Hartford divisions that all men absent from the duty without leave at noon tomorrow would have their service records terminated.

Made from Our Own Fine Voile
Three Hundred
Fashionable Cotton Dresses

Made from Our Own Fine Voiles, the yarn of which was made in England and dyed to our order.

THE last two or three weeks we have sold many hundreds of Cotton Dresses and offered some very exceptional values. But none have equalled the values of these three hundred Dresses, as they are made from our own fine quality voile, the yarn of which is imported and dyed to our order. We made arrangements with one of our best manufacturers to make up these Dresses at about his actual cost of manufacture. We wanted him to make eight or nine hundred. He was unwilling to do this, but would make three hundred. These Dresses are in the most desirable colors, just the shades that are most in demand. We have had them made in the best styles, simple models without elaboration, with organdie trimming and self-material, knife-pleated ruffles. In fact, they are dresses which if purchased in the regular way would sell from about 20.00 to 22.50. They are priced 15.75.

Beautiful Cotton Dresses for Misses

7.50 to 12.50

Over 400 Dresses for Misses, excellent assortment, in attractive designs, some with light ground, others with dark ground. By making large purchases from manufacturers whose specialty is Misses' Cotton Dresses, we were able to secure these dresses at considerable concession from regular prices. The styles are just suited for Misses, many having the desired short sleeves, ruffle and lace trimmings, apron tunics and straightline models.

MISSES' DRESSES in Figured Voiles, Ginghams and Organdies; many made in our own workroom from our own materials. Some of the most attractive dresses we have offered this season. Priced 20.00 to 25.00.

100 Camel's Hair Coats

Genuine Camel's Hair, Possessing Warmth Without Weight

Price 45.00 Each

THESE are extremely comfortable coats for summer, they protect against the chill air of morning and evening without the oppressive weight of a heavy coat. Now the majority of manufacturers had used up all their materials and stopped making these camel's hair coats, though expecting to resume in the fall. One manufacturer who had a large quantity of Camel's Hair on hand in anticipation of fall needs, wished to keep some of his indispensable and expert workmen employed. He made us one hundred Coats, at a very low price, so low in fact that we can sell these at 45.00. In view of the fact that several months ago we sold such coats at 85.00, this is about the best value of the season.

ENEMY'S OPEN THREAT TO KILL HAUNTED ELWELL FOR YEARS

LIVED IN CONSTANT FEAR

Lawyer Holds Copy of Letter Sent to Victim of Strange Murder

New York, June 25.—Threats of violence, communicated verbally, in writing and by messenger, had haunted the waking hours of Joseph B. Elwell for months—even years—before his death at the hands of an unidentified assassin on the early morning of June 11, the authorities discovered today.

David C. Hirsch, attorney, of No. 141 Broadway, who was associated with Judge McIntyre of General Sessions as counsel for the turfman in the separation proceedings which his wife began some years ago, is authority for the statement that one written threat against Elwell is in existence.

Mr. Hirsch says that he has a "true" copy of this letter, but has declined to make it public on the grounds that to do so would be unethical. The original is said to be in the possession of Frederick F. Neuman of the law firm of Neuman & Newgass of Rector street.

TELLS OF THREAT.

Mr. Hirsch declared that threats against the turfman had been made in person by the supposed writer of the letter and also communicated by a third man, a mutual friend of his and Elwell's.

The repeated warnings, the lawyer said, had caused Elwell to live "in constant fear" of violence both day and night.

"We are certain that Elwell was joined by someone—whether a man or woman I cannot say—in his home early on the morning he was found murdered. If a woman, it was one of two persons. Mrs. Marie Larsen, Elwell's housekeeper, knows them both, and she can help us if she will."

This was the summary of the situation surrounding the investigation of the mysterious murder of Joseph B. Elwell "whist king" and turfman, as given out today by one official working on the case.

HAS TOLD A DOZEN STORIES.

"Mrs. Larsen has told at least a dozen stories of events on the morning of the murder and other events in Elwell's life. If she tells all she knows, without holding back a single fact, we shall be close upon the trail of the murderer in my opinion," this official declared.

New information gleaned by the authorities from "Miss Wilson," the beautiful young society woman who was said to have been one of Elwell's most intimate woman friends, was said to be to the effect that she expected Elwell to marry her.

"It was our hope, Joe's and mine, to be married eventually," "Miss Wilson" is said to have confided to the investigators from the district attorney's office. "Joe (Elwell) told me a fortnight ago that he would marry me if he could persuade his wife to divorce him."

WIDOW QUESTIONED.

Mrs. Helen Derby Elwell, the slain man's widow, questioned again, said that Elwell on three different occasions had offered her $2,000 to divorce him. She characterized the amount as "miserable."

"Imagine it," she said. "The $2,000 was to be Elwell's price for freedom—the sum of which my son and I might start life anew."

A gambler and not a woman caused Elwell's tragic death, according to Mrs. Elwell. She declared that has been her theory and that the shooting resulted from a "heavy stake" game, "probably held at my husband's home."

The widow believes that an accounting was probably demanded after the game, and that this "accounting" was refused. She added:

"When he (Elwell) wouldn't give it this man shot my husband. I think that house was a gambling house and I think that many persons, instead of two or three, had keys to it.

"It is my theory that there was a party there the morning after Mr. Elwell came home, in which a game was played for large stakes. Perhaps the cigarette stubs found there indicate there was a party.

"I believe that after the party broke up someone returned, entered the place with his key, demanded a settlement, and not getting it, fired the fatal shot."

1,000 TEACHERS PLAN STUDY

Enrollment for Summer Schools More Than Double That of Last Year

More than twice as many public school teachers have enrolled for study in the three State Summer schools this year as last year, according to Frank W. Wright, deputy commissioner of education. One thousand have enrolled for study at Hyannis, Fitchburg and Amherst.

The increased enrollment is due to a desire on the part of school authorities for a higher class of teachers because of larger salaries now paid. "During the past two years there has been an increase of at least 30 per cent. in school teachers' salaries," he said. "Local school officials have concluded that they should receive increased efficiency. Paying higher wages, they are demanding a better grade of teachers. Some cities are so anxious to maintain a high-class teaching force that they are paying the expenses of their teachers to attend the Summer schools. Others are promising higher salaries in the Fall if the teachers study this Summer."

FIVE WIVES ASK FOR THEIR FREEDOM

Seven suits for divorce by five women and two men were filed in Middlesex Court at East Cambridge today.

Mrs. Georgianna Brown, Cambridge, sued Charles A. Brown, of Cambridge, alleging cruel and abusive treatment, with confirmed habits of intoxication. Mrs. Susie E. Maguire, Stoneham, sued George E. Maguire, charging gross and confirmed habits of intoxication and desertion. Mrs. Philomene Dozois, Lowell, accused Flavien Dozois, of non-support and desertion on February 1, 1917. Mrs. Grace E. Hazendock, Salem, sued John Hazendock, Malden, for desertion, on June 16, 1914. Harry G. Mosman, Watertown, alleged desertion against Mrs. Dorothy H. Mosman, on June 15, 1911.

Joseph E. de Sousa, Somerville, charged unfaithfulness against Mrs. Mary E. de Sousa, of Malden.

SHOE CRISIS IN MANY CITIES

Deadlock Similar to That in Haverhill Threatens Salem and Other Centres

While Haverhill shoe manufacturers, employing 18,000 hands, postponed for twenty-four hours today an announcement of what they intend to do about the refusal of organized labor to join them in a new proposition with reference to hours, wages and shop conditions a similar situation appeared to be developing in the shops of Salem, Peabody, Danvers and Beverly.

The walkout of 250 employes of the John D. Sargent Company at Salem and the P. A. Field plant in Beverly was characterized by employers as an "outlaw" proceeding in that, they alleged, it is without the sanction of the unions. The workers say their employers agreed to pay them a bonus and then "laid down" on them.

Employers throughout the district complain that the business depression which has laid a paralyzing hand upon the industry throughout the [illegible]—manifesting itself in canceled orders and the great combination [illegible] now in progress in many cities—has made further bonuses out of the question.

Shoe manufacturers, most of whom have piled up fortunes in the past few years, appear in many instances to be ready for a showdown with the unions in this season of curtailment.

The Joint Shoe Council, representing the workers of Salem, Peabody, Danvers and Beverly, will meet tonight. One report is that the Council will discuss the calling of a general strike affecting 20,000 workers if a 20 per cent. bonus is not forthcoming.

Union shoe workers in Haverhill expect an announcement tomorrow that many shops in that city will close next Tuesday for an indefinite period.

CLIFFORD BARS EVELYN NESBIT

Shows Pistols and Says Wife Cannot Enter His Camp

Upper Chateaugay Lake, N. Y., June 25.—If Evelyn Nesbit attempts to visit Camp Jack, occupied by her husband, Virgil James Montagni, otherwise Jack Clifford, she will be barred. Clifford made this announcement, displaying two revolvers and a belt of cartridges.

Clifford expressed his anger at Evelyn's action in naming Ann Luther and Juanita Hansen as co-respondents in her counter suit for divorce. He particularly resented her statement that he was hiding a woman when she visited the camp last week.

Clifford told reporters today that he had held a shotgun on his knee when his wife and a Manhattan lawyer called last week. She said, according to him:

"You would not use that on me?" He said he replied:

"No; it is too good for you."

Miss Nesbit "used sob stuff" on him in an attempt to persuade him to let her enter the Camp Jack house, but it had no effect on him, he added. He charged that she planned to bring a friend to the camp.

School Boys Throw Off Their Great Burden

"Hooray, fellers, schools over today. There ain't no more 'rithmetic, nor spellin', nor geography, nor anything 'bout about stiff old colonial guys, in high chokers, generals and guns who made history round Revolutionary times, no more till next September. Hey, fellers, great news. Get out the fishing lines, and the swimmin' suits, and come on in, the water's fine."

This is about what 100,000 Boston pupils, relieved from school till Autumn, said to each other, on this first morning of the long Summer holiday. For last evening, with the graduations from the various city high schools, the vacations went into effect.

Verily, a change is as good as a rest, especially when it is a change from 'rithmetic. And, verily, there is one thing about school which can't be bettered—so says Tommy—and that is vacation.

TRAP 'SEERS' IN THEFT CASE

Arrest Two Accused of Getting $3,700 in Lynn Through Old Trick

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stanley, gypsy fortune tellers, who are alleged to have fleeced Mrs. Elizabeth Lamparter of No. 681 Essex street, Lynn, of $3,700, were arrested in Cleveland, O., today, according to word received by Lyn police.

An inspector of that department will go to Cleveland to get the Stanleys.

The ruse which Mrs. Lamparter said was employed is an old one in fortune telling frauds, according to the police. In the spring, Mrs. Lamparter said, she visited Mrs. Stanley, who had a parlor on Liberty street, Lynn, and was then known as Mme. Vashti. Mrs. Lamparter was instructed by the medium, she said, to draw $3,700 from the bank, and return with it in a bag about her neck. Mme. Vashti on the second visit, she claimed, made a number of mystic passes about the money bag. Following instructions she returned to her home, Mrs. Parmenter said, and did not open the bag until one month later when she became worried. She discovered that the bag contained only a rumpled bunch of newspapers.

Her purpose in following the fortune teller's dictates, Mrs. Parmenter said, was to obtain evidence against her husband, from whom she has been separated. At the time of their separation they sold their home and the proceeds was the $3,700 which she drew from the bank.

She told Chief Inspector Kane of Lynn that the loss left her penniless. She is employed as a housekeeper in Boston.

MEDFORD BOY DROWNED IN 15 INCHES OF WATER

William Doherty, five-year-old son of Patrick Doherty of No. 47 Newbern avenue, Medford, was drowned in fifteen inches of water in a creek leading from the Mystic River.

The body was found by a searching party, including the boy's father, after the child had been missing from home three hours.

Boys swimming in the river near the creek did not see or hear the boy when he fell in.

ASK 5-CENT FARE IN EAST BOSTON

Elevated Grants Hearing June 30 on Request of Local American Legion

Hopes of East Boston residents for a five-cent street car fare within the confines of that section were strengthened today by receipt of a notice from James F. Jackson, chairman of trustees of the Boston Elevated, that a public hearing on the matter would be held June 30 in the Elevated headquarters at No. 108 Massachusetts avenue.

The notice was sent to Commander Stephen C. Sullivan of Orient Heights Post, No. 54, of the American Legion. Discussion of the five-cent fare, which has been brewing in East Boston for several months, was crystalized by the Orient Heights Post in a letter to the Elevated trustees requesting a hearing.

Thousands of residents, one of the legionnaires said today, are employed at the wharves and industries along the waterfront. Cutting the fare in half, he claimed, would not only mean a substantial saving in their car fare allowance, but would permit many of them to return home daily for lunch.

In addition, women residents ride to Maverick square, the shopping centre of East Boston, and it was argued that still more would go by trolley if a 5-cent fare was in effect and that the revenues of the Elevated would actually be increased. The longest run within East Boston is from Gladstone street, Orient Heights, to the entrance of the tunnel, which takes about twelve minutes.

It is contended by the East Boston citizens that the five-cent cars could be operated between cars from Boston and that there are ample switching facilities at the tunnel mouth, so that the service could be installed with little additional expense. At present, they said, it is felt that they are being discriminated against, with other sections of Greater Boston having five-cent fares within their limits. They are not protesting, these persons said, against the ten-cent fare through the tunnel and connecting lines.

To Succeed With Hens Buy a Steamship

Pittsfield, June 25. — The way to make a fortune in the egg business is to first buy a steamship.

At Fernbrook, the country place of Thomas Shields Clarke, in the upper part of Lenox, are seventy Rhode Island Reds which, neighbors say, have produced 200 eggs apiece in about a year.

When he went to Palm Beach early in the Winter, Mr. Clarke took the hens with him on a Clyde Line steamship. When they reached Florida the birds thought it was Spring. They returned to Lenox and it was Spring. The boss gardener at Fernbrook says the steamship owner who will go chasing the sunshine with—say—500,000 hens for his passengers will pile up a fortune bigger than John D.'s.

No rooster accompanied the Clarke hens to Palm Beach.

SHEPARD DEMOCRACY DINED BY PRESIDENT

Members of the Cabinet, Senate and House of Representatives of the "Industrial Democracy" of the Shepard stores, 150 in number, were guests of the president, John Shepard, Jr., at a complimentary dinner at the Colonial Hotel prior to President Shepard's leaving for his "Summer White House" at Taconic, Mass. The popularity of the president and the solid indorsement of his principles could not be questioned. The gathering was strictly for pleasure, with the exception of one speech of a serious nature by Jerome K. Stearns, superintendent of the store who reviewed the work the "Democracy" had accomplished in the government of the store. An elaborate entertainment was presented, and an invitation extended by President Shepard to be present at a similar meeting next year. Several employes of the Providence store attended.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

"The H. C. L. problem is a matter of dollars and sense."

A newspaper recently delivered this thought in hope that the point would not be lost by having the sentence read aloud.

However, spell it "cents" or "sense" and you may reach the same conclusion by bringing your dollars to Hovey's. Then you have spelled it both ways!

ACCUSE PETERS OF FAVORITISM

Central Construction Co. Denounces Rejection of Lowest Bid to Pave Jamaicaway

Charges of "absolute favoritism" in awarding the contract for paving Jamaicaway, between Huntington avenue and Willow Pond road, to Warren Brothers Company, were made in a complaint to the Finance Commission by Harry W. Haywood, secretary of the Central Construction Company, the lowest bidders.

The Central Construction Company's bid of $28,730 for a sheet asphalt pavement, was rejected by the Park and Recreation Commission, which awarded the contract to the second bidders, the Warren Brothers Company, for a bithulitic roadway at $29,290.90.

"In my opinion it is a case of absolute favoritism," declared Haywood. "When Mayor Peters took office we never thought any such thing as this would be done. On this contract the worst we thought they would do would be to reject all bids and call for new ones. The rejection of the lowest bid to give the contract to the next lowest bidder was something we did not expect from this administration."

No action has been promised by the finance commission, according to Haywood, because of "the absence of facts which will impugn the motives of the department in awarding the contract to other than the lowest bidders."

Members of the park and recreation commission declared that bithulithic was a longer wearing pavement. Upon their recommendation Mayor Peters approved the contract.

STRANGER IN WOMAN'S FLAT TAKES DIAMOND

Mrs. Fannie Berger of No. 631 Eastern avenue, Malden, reported to the Malden police that on her return home after an absence of several hours she found in her chamber a young man of about thirty years, who declared he had mistaken her flat for another one, and that after he had withdrawn with profuse apologies she discovered that she had lost her diamond ring and two $1 bills she had left in her bureau.

The young man is described to be about thirty years of age, smooth shaven, tall and slight build, weighing about 155 pounds. He wore a pepper and salt suit and a straw hat.

Find T.N.T. Secreted in German's Sloop

New York, June 25.—Detectives from the Manhattan "bomb squad" and naval intelligence officers located one thousand pounds of T. N. T. in the cabin of a deserted sloop at Plumb Beach, near Rockaway, L. I.

The raid was made on receipt of an anonymous tip that a German submarine base was located on the beach. The detectives learned that the boat was owned by a German. He was seen, the detectives declare carrying big boxes in the sloop at night two years ago while the country was still at war. He was then working in a munitions plant, the detectives say.

Officials are unable to explain the mystery. The explosive was sufficient to destroy a dozen transports.

ORDER McCAIN TO CHICAGO

Camp Devens Will Honor Its Wartime Commander With Big Review

Camp Ayer, June 25.—Major-General Harry C. McCain, in command of this camp, today received orders to report to Maor-General Leonard Wood of the Central Department at Chicago for duty next week. He will have the rank of colonel, having been reduced with other regular army officers who received temporary promotions during the war.

A complimentary review with all the units now at Camp Devens, including the training school for reserve officers, participating, will be held on the main drill field at 4:30 p. m. next Monday in honor of General McCain. The event is expected to attract thousands of out of town visitors.

Among the organizations which will pass before the reviewing line are: Third National Guard regiment of Maine and their band, Rhode Island Ambulance company, the student of the R. O. T. C., the 13th and 36th regiments of the regular army, and the Narragansett band from Fort Adams.

With General McCain on the reviewing line will be Mrs. McCain and the members of his staff. Major-General Edwards and other officers of the Northeastern Department are expected to attend.

Major-General McCain came to Camp Devens at the conclusion of the formation of the 76th Division and its departure for France. He organied the 12th or Plymouth Division, which had an enrollment of 42,000 men, and was scheduled to leave for France when it was detained by an epidemic of influenza. The armistice came while the division was in quarantine, and consequently it did not get overseas. Eight hundred men of the division died of influena at the base hospital.

General McCain received his wartime rank while serving as Adjutant General of the army and continued in that office until ordered to Camp Devens. He planned the entertainment and demobilization of the 26th Division and other organizations which have been demobilized here. He has also staged a number of maneuvres with the Camp Devens troops and established camp schools.

TWENTY IN COURT IN TRAFFIC LAW CASES

A campaign inaugurated against motorists who fail to respect traffic laws in East Boston by Captain James F. Hickey, resulted in twenty appearing before Judge Barnes today. Eighteen paid fines of $5 each for failing to sound signals at the corner of Breed and Bennington streets. The cases of two charged with the same offence were placed on file. One of the offenders paid an additional $5 fine for failure to have a license and cases were filed against two others for the same charge.

TO EXAMINE MAN WHO FRIGHTENED NEIGHBORS

Walter E. Carey, 48 years old, of Vernon street, Roxbury, who was accused of frightening neighbors by entering their homes and flourishing a revolver, was committed to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation today by the Roxbury Court. He was charged with drunkenness and unlawfully carrying firearms. His bail was fixed at $500 and a hearing set for July 7.

Overcome by Smoke

Scores of diners were driven to the street by a fire in the "Shell" sea grill at No. 239 Tremont street today. Mrs. Rose Dini, cashier, was overcome by smoke and fright, and was removed to the office of a physician. The blaze was confined to the kitchen and rear part of the dining room, and the damage was slight.

Big, Vicious Turtles Invade Connecticut

Killingly, Ct., June 25.—Before Mr. Volstead had his way a correspondent who valued job and reputation would have hesitated to report the fact, but Eastern Connecticut is overrun with turtles as big as water pails. They attack men and snap viciously at automobiles.

At the State highway between Jewett City and Killingly one motorist counted 397. Two Wauregan boys yesterday gathered 47. Giant turtles are seen by railroad men all the way from Norwich to Worcester.

Onler Lebarre was attacked by one near the Orpheum Theatre in Danielson. Two have been chased out of Pellett's Garage. Seven were found in South Killingly Church yard. Near Oneco John Beauschene caught one that weighed 160 pounds.

This morning Jewett City young people who went to Tadpole Pond for pond lilies started to bail out a dory and found 63 turtles of all sizes, with hundreds more sunning themselves on stumps roundabout.

REVERE TO FIGHT STREET CAR CUT

Mayor Will Petition Governor in Bay State Controversy Over Trolley Service

The right of the Bay State to discontinue certain lines will be contested in every way possible, Mayor Roscoe Walsworth of Revere declared today, following the filing of his petition with the Supreme Court to have the authority of the railroad's trustees under the special act of 1918 determined.

Mayor Walsworth was also preparing a petition to the Governor asking him to act in the discontinuance of street railway lines on the ground that the question is one of public policy. In his plea the Mayor asserted that trustees of the Bay State Company had misrepresented the Revere situation in a "most unfair and unjustified" manner. The discontinuances of lines in Revere, particularly those of Malden street, Park avenue, Revere street, and the threatened discontinuance of Beachmont service is resented by the Mayor. The reason given by the trustees was that those lines did not pay.

PINCHOT PREDICTS BIG THIRD PARTY INCREASE

New York, June 25.—Amos Pinchot, one of the strongest supporters of Colonel Roosevelt in 1912, today declared that instead of winning back Progressives who followed Roosevelt and made up the "Bull Moose" party, "the nomination of Harding on a reactionary, ambiguous and insincere platform, proved the utter impossibility of reforming either of the old parties from within." As a member of the Committee of Forty-Eight, Pinchot predicted real Progressives would flock to the new third party, which will be launched at Chicago, July 10.

STATEMENT

Criticism has been directed at us by certain persons who claim that our sale is being exaggerated in various ways. In reply we desire to point out a few of the reasons why these values are so really phenomenal:

First—It must be taken into consideration that the wholesaler must make a profit, the retailer must make a profit, and the manufacturer must make a profit on every pair of shoes sold in the ordinary way.

In this sale, we, as manufacturers selling to you directly, are taking an actual loss on our manufacturing cost, and a considerable one at that. Don't think that the retailer is buying shoes like these for $5.50, nor anything like it. So when he charges you $12.50, $15 or $18 for similar shoes he is only making his legitimate profit. We have no axes to grind. Our only object in this sale is to sell this immense stock as quickly as possible. Ask any of the women who have bought these shoes if they are as advertised and what they think of this sale. Shoes cheerfully exchanged or money refunded if returned in original boxes unsoiled.

U. S. 'REDS' CALL FOR REBELLION

Secret Convention Adopts Plank Favoring an Armed Insurrection Here

Washington, June 25.—Armed rebellion "by the working classes against the capitalistic government" is a plank in the platform adopted in a secret convention of the newly formed United Communist party held recently in the United States at the request of the Amsterdam, Holland, headquarters, according to documents made public today by the Department of Justice.

Neither the gathering place nor the exact date was announced by the department, but it was stated that the convention lasted a week and was attended by 55 delegates from all parts of the United States. These delegates met under assumed names.

A significant feature of the documents is the statement that none of the Communists on the 1919 roll was present, a fact explained as "The remarkable achievement of the Lusk-Palmer inquisition."

The report states that the United Communist party, "making no pretense of legality," promulgated a declaration of revolutionary principles, asserting that the final struggle between workers and capitalists will take the form of civil war, and that it is the function of the United Communist party systematically to familiarize the working class with the necessity of armed insurrection as the only means through which the capitalist government can be overthrown.

The platform denounces the American Federation of Labor as "The bulwark of capitalism," condemns the American Legion as the enemy of the aims of the party, declares itself the "First clear-cut expression of the revolutionary movement that has achieved splendid victory in Russia," and advocates agitation among negro workers "to unite them with all class conscious workers."

Army Here Going to War--Against Rats

Orders to prepare for war were received today from Washington at army headquarters.

The declaration was against the rats.

Every military post and camp in New England must fortify against the invader. The ammunition recommended is good-sized traps, poison, Boston terriers and cats that are hungry.

Rats may carry the bubonic plague flea.

According to orders, garbage cans must be kept covered, accumulation of organic matter must be destroyed. Kitchens, pantries, commissary warehouses, stables and buildings where grain is stored must be ratproof.

45 P. C. GAINS IN COAL PROFITS

Miners' Official Declares 'Barons' Kept Up Prices While Production Cost Fell

Coincident with charges made by Philip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the public is the victim of collusion and profiteering on the part of the coal barons, is a report by the Federal Trade Commission that during March the coal operators increased their profits 45 per cent.

Mr. Murray made his charges before the Federal Anthracite Coal Commission in Scranton when petitioning for a minimum wage for anthracite miners of $6 a day. He said:

"If the excessive profits resulting from the coal monopoly are eliminated and the industry conducted with a wholesale regard for the public welfare a liberal return could be made to capital and the wages of the workers could be increased to American living standards. The American public has been grievously exploited by the present coal monopoly since 1898."

In the statistics compiled by the Federal Trade Commission it is seen that the margin of profit to the coal operators was 42 cents a ton against 29 cents in February. During the month the cost per ton to the operator was reduced 4 per cent, while the output per day was increased 5 per cent. The consumer, however, was not allowed to share in these benefits.

SEES MOVE TO HURT VALERA

John J. Hearn Condemns "Attempt to Discredit" Irish Republic President

Editor American:

The statements contained in Mr. Edward F. McSweeney's letter to the Boston papers on Tuesday are so misleading that I feel compelled publicly to take issue with him.

Following President De Valera's statement in Monday's papers, Mr. McSweeney's letter cannot but be regarded as a deliberate attempt to discredit him in the eyes of the American public. Why Mr. McSweeney presumes to speak for his friend Justice Cohalan as the chosen representative of the 20,000,000 Americans of Irish blood, to whom he so frequently refers, is anything but clear. When, where or how was Judge Cohalan chosen the leader of these 20,000,000?

'Tis true that the national president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, Very Rev. Peter E. Magennis, O. C. C., is absent in Rome, but it might be supposed that the first vice-president, Mr. Frank P. Walsh, would speak officially for the organization in his absence. What is Mr. Walsh's position? We find him standing loyally behind President De Valera. For Mr. Walsh sees as do, I venture to say, the overwhelming majority of the oft referred to 20,000,000, that President De Valera is in America, not as a political agent, but as the accredited representative with plenipotentiary powers of the Irish republic.

When we picture our Benjamin Franklin laying siege to a French Imperial Court for the recognition of the struggling American republic, we see the true position of Eamon De Valera in America.

The fine distinction Mr. McSweeney attempts to draw between President De Valera's outlook and that of Judge Cohalan is ingenuous, but not convincing, especially to those who have followed with interest the wonderful addresses and the unassailable position which Mr. De Valera has maintained since he came to America.

The charge that Mr. De Valera has attempted to meddle in domestic American politics is best answered in President De Valera's own words.

No thinking person can deny him the right to appear before any body of American citizens for the furtherance of his cause, and it was acting in this capacity that he sought at the Republican convention to advance the object of his sojourn in America.

The equivocal efforts of Mr. McSweeney and his friends to thwart President De Valera at Chicago, and to secure, instead of the recognition he desires, a weak resolution of sympathy, were most reprehensible, especially in view of the fact that no action had been planned by them until they found that Mr. De Valera had requested some of his friends to co-operate with him there.

Say Lady Hadfield Seeks Divorce

LADY HADFIELD

New York, June 25.—The rumor was repeated in a cablegram from London yesterday that Lady Hadfield, wife of Sir Robert Hadfield, is in Reno, Nev., to obtain a divorce.

George W. Wickersham, brother of Lady Hadfield, at his Summer home at Far Rockaway, last night refused to comment on the report.

It was admitted last March by Lady Hadfield's attorney that she had taken up her residence in Reno temporarily.

Lady Hadfield was Frances Wickersham of Philadelphia. She was married to Sir Robert in 1894. Sir Robert is England's largest steel manufacturer and one of the richest men in London.

PEACE SOUGHT IN DE VALERA ROW

Attempts to Conciliate New York Clergymen Referred to Irish President

New York, June 25.—A communication, virtually a "peace feeler," has been forwarded by Diarmuid Lynch, general secretary of the Friends of Irish Freedom, to several clergymen who publicly denounced Justice Cohalan.

Among those to receive the letter from the organization's headquarters at No. 280 Broadway are: Monsignor Powers and the Rev. Frs. O'Connor and Dooley, all of New York, the Rev. Fr. Yorke of San Francisco, and the Rev. Fr. Hurton of Philadelphia.

The answers to the attempts at conciliation are substantially this: "See De Valera."

"I think it is too late," said Monseigner Power. "It is better after all that everybody recognize Eamon De Valera as the only person authorized to speak and act for the Irish Republic. It is far better that we have leaders who understand us throughly and understand the man who has to bear the brunt of the fighting."

There is some hope maintained that Archbishop Mannix, when he arrives here next month, may be able to settle the difference between the Cohalan-Devoy and De Valera forces. Justice Cohalan will not go to San Francisco. The anti-De Valera forces will be represented there by Daniel T. O'Connell of Boston, press agent for the Friends of Irish Freedom. Both sides are expected to present two planks indepenient of each other.

FLEET TO QUELL IRISH REVOLT

City of Londonderry Now Under the Guns of British Destroyer Flotilla

By International News Service.

Belfast, June 25.—A flotilla of British destroyers has arrived at Londonderry, and is lying in the harbor today with the city under its guns. The heavy fighting which had been raging intermittently since Saturday has died down to isolated skirmishing and sniping.

A severe rainstorm which began early today assisted the British troops in restoring peace in the battle-ridden city.

One person was killed while a detachment of soldiers was dispersing a band of looters.

There was considerable sniping during the night. Shortly after midnight the troops patrolling the city fired several heavy volleys into buildings where snipers were concealed and then began an extensive search for the riflemen.

According to a telephone message from a Londonderry suburb firing again broke out between 5 and 6 o'clock. A British officer was quoted as saying that "Things were pretty hot."

A second telephone message from Londonderry said: "All fighting has ceased." British troops took possession of the grounds and buildings of St. Columbkille College, where there had been considerable sniping.

Business in Londonderry is still virtually at a standstill. Most of the shopkeepers feared to open up their stores.

FIRE ON BRITISH WARSHIPS.

It is reported that Sinn Feiners hidden on the heights on the outskirts of the city fired a number of shots at the British warships in the harbor.

Searchlights on the ships and those on shore operated by the troops were kept playing on the city throughout the night. The British military authorities believe that they have the situation completely in hand, but they have had a difficult time in checking the widespread looting.

PARDON FOR EX-SOCIALIST WHO OPPOSED DRAFT

New York, June 25. — Dr. Morris Zucker, a Brooklyn dentist, convicted under the espionage act for opposing the military draft law, has been pardoned by President Wilson. The pardon, it is said, was granted when Zucker promised to cease agitating the Socialist cause. He recently resigned from the party.

REFUSE BAIL TO ARNSTEIN'S PAL

Ecremont Accused of $325,000 Swindle; Also in $6,000,000 Bond Theft

Washington, June 25. — Arthur Ecremont, who figured in the "Nickey" Arnstein case, and against whom a deportation warrant has been issued, has been ordered detained without bail by Assistant Secretary of Labor Post. The immigration officials in New York were instructed to expedite the proceeding against Ecremont.

The Department of Labor was informed by Saul S. Myers, counsel for the American Surety Company, National Surety Company, United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company and other financial organizations, that testimony in the pending bankruptcy proceedings of "Nickey" Arnstein showed that Ecremont was clearly a party to the conspiracy to defraud Michael Connolly of Montreal, Canada, of $125,000 and a ranch in Alberta, Canada, valued at $200,000, and that he and his associates actually did secure that sum and the ranch.

The department was also advised that there was strong belief that Ecremont is connected with the so-called $6,000,000 Wall Street bond thefts. The government is now working on this phase of the case. Ecremont's picture, the department was informed, is in the Rogues' Gallery in Chicago, Buffalo and New York. He is under indictment in Canada for conspiring to defraud Connolly and in order for Connolly to get justice it is imperative that Ecremont be deported, the department was advised.

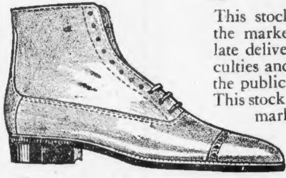
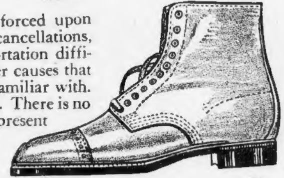
SHOES





This stock has been forced upon the market through cancellations, late deliveries, transportation difficulties and all the other causes that the public is already familiar with. This stock must be sold. There is no market for it at present except the individual.

The reputation enjoyed by the makers of these high class shoes among the better class of retailers is such that it does not seem necessary here to go into detail regarding the excellence of their product.

ALL SIZES 5 to 12—All Grain Leather Innersoles—High-class Making

We show in this announcement of sale several styles in Men's Shoes. There are many others in all fashionable leathers and weights.

The average business man understands that these factory sales cannot be interpreted as meaning that shoes will be lower in price. That is not so. It costs as much to make shoes now [illegible] did for many months past, and as far as future costs are concerned there is nothing to indicate that they will be lower than they have been for some months past. Labor and leathers are not coming down. When these cancellation stocks are sold the present high retail prices will prevail. ALL SALES FINAL—NO MAIL ORDERS.

Because with such a tremendous stock to dispose of, we consider it good business to take a reasonable loss now while the garments are still in style, seasonable and saleable, in preference to taking the greater loss which would result if we held onto a part of them until they became the unwanted left-overs of a bygone season.
Disposing of all merchandise during the season for which it was made has always been a prominent characteristic of all Kennedy Stores, and one of the things that make them different from ordinary stores. If it entails a loss, we take it cheerfully, knowing such action keeps our business healthy.
From your standpoint, this policy means exceptional and genuine bargains from time to time, such as the present, when you can come here and get the finest garments that America's best makers can produce, and pay even less than is usually asked for carelessly made and undesirables of uncertain age and quality.

FOREWORD—Continued.

GRAYSON said pleasantly:

"It was the great American [illegible] first [illegible] concerning the Great American novel."

"Oh, what a knock!" shouted Oswald Grismer, delighted.

But young Balter joined in the roars of laughter, undisturbed, saying very coolly:

"Do you mean, sir, that the Great American novel will never be written, or that it has already been written several times, or that there isn't any such thing?"

"I mean all three, Jack," explained Grayson, smiling. "Let me see that caricature you have been so busy over."

"It's—it's you, sir."

"What of it?" retorted the young master. "Do you think I can't laugh at myself?"

He took the paper so reluctantly tendered.

"Jack, you are a terror! You young rascal, you've made me look like a wax-faced clothing dummy."

"Tribute to [illegible] apparel and [illegible] features—"

Much Laughter

A shriek of laughter from the boys who had crowded around to see. Grayson [illegible] emphatic [illegible] of the theme of the moment.

Into the swaying car and down the aisle came a negro in spotless white [illegible].

"First [illegible] gentle-men! [illegible] served in the dining car forward."

His agreeable voice was drowned in the cheering of three dozen famished boys, stampeding.

Cleland Junior came last with the master.

"I hope you'll have a happy holiday, Jim," said Grayson, with quiet cordiality.

"I'm crazy to see father," said the boy. "I'm sure I'll have a good time."

At the vestibule he stepped aside, but the master bade him precede him.

And as the fair, slender boy passed out into the forward car, the breeze ruffling his blond hair and his brown eyes still smiling with the anticipation of home coming, he passed [illegible] and Destiny, whispering together in the corner [illegible] boy could not see them, could not know that they were discussing him.

CHAPTER I.

AN average New York house on a side street in Winter is a dark affair, daylight comes reluctantly and late into the city, the south side of a street catches the first Winter sun rays when there [illegible] shadowy and [illegible].

[illegible] Senior's old fashioned house stood on the north side of Eightieth street, and on the last morning [illegible] stone facade [illegible] of the street, the Cleland's breakfast room still remained [illegible], bathed in the silvery gray dusk of morning.

Father and son had finished breakfast, but Cleland Senior, whose other names were John and William, had not yet [illegible] cigar which he held [illegible]. Nor had he opened the morning paper to read paragraphs [illegible] interest to Cleland Junior, comment upon them and encourage discussion as was his wont when his son happened to be home from [illegible].

But John William Cleland's dead wife had managed to [illegible] with its lovely early American furniture and [illegible] low, old-time prints [illegible].

Cleland Junior continued to look [illegible] parting.

A Nice Boy

"[illegible] think you'll make [illegible]" repeated [illegible], not removing his eyes from the cigar he was turning over and over.

"Yes, father."

"All right. Then a general education is the thing, and Harvard the place—unless you prefer another university."

"The fellows are going to Harvard—most of them," said the boy.

"A boy's [illegible] desires to go where his school friends go. [illegible] It's all right, Jim."

Cleland Junior's fresh, smooth face [illegible] still sat absently turning over and over the unlighted cigar between his fingers. [illegible] separation was weighing on them both. That, and the empty third chair by the bay window, inclined them to caution in speech, lest [illegible] between [illegible].

[illegible] blossom of some sort beside the place which nobody used.

Cleland Senior gazed at the [illegible].

There was a very tall clock in that room, which had been made by one of the [illegible] many years before the elder Cleland's birth; but it [illegible] now as aggressively and bumptiously as though it were brand new.

A Moment of Tension

The father wandered about for a while, perhaps with the vague idea of finding a match for his cigar; the son's clear gaze followed his father's restless movements until the clock struck the half hour.

"Father."

"Yes, dear—yes, old chap?" with forced carelessness which deceived [illegible].

"It's half past nine."

"All right, Jim—any time you're ready."

"I hate to go back and leave you all alone here!" broke out the boy [illegible].

It was a moment of painful tension.

Cleland Senior did not reply; and the boy, conscious of the emotion which his voice had betrayed, and [illegible] about it, turned his head and gazed out into the back yard.

[illegible] and son still wore mourning; the black garments made the boy's [illegible] seem fairer than they really were—as fair as his dead mother's.

A Short Visit With a Lasting Memory

"I never know what to make for dessert [illegible]" said Mrs. Martin as she glanced at the clock, and put aside her sewing.

"Let me get it for you," said Mrs. Blair, who was visiting her for a few days. "I'd love to do it."

Dinner time came and Mrs. Blair who had insisted on making the dessert with utmost secrecy, [illegible] the table and returned with a [illegible] blanc mange.

"Tastes even better than it looks," said Mrs. Martin [illegible]. "How do you make it?"

"Why it's Puddine," [illegible] Mrs. Blair mysteriously, "wonderful Puddine."

"I insist upon knowing all about it. Where did you get it, and what is it?" laughed her friend.

"I'll tell you. I [illegible] got it at your grocer's," [illegible] Mrs. Blair. "Jack loves cornstarch pudding and if there was one thing I couldn't make it was cornstarch pudding or blanc mange. Then I heard of Puddine."

"Is it hard to make or expensive?" interrupted Mrs. Martin.

"Oh, no, indeed. All you have to do is to add milk, either fresh or condensed, and sugar, and boil for three minutes. Then when it's cool you have a firm rich mound of [illegible] creamy dessert. A 15c box of Puddine will serve 15 people, or a 10c box seven people."

"The only thing is," objected Mrs. Martin, "the children are not so fond of chocolate, and I guess it's really too rich for them, anyhow."

"Oh no," exclaimed Mrs. Blair. "It isn't too rich. Why, it's so pure and wholesome you can let them have as much as they want—and it comes in any number of flavors—rose, vanilla, orange, lemon—and you can make all sorts of things with Puddine—creamy cake and pie fillings, and smooth ice cream."

"That being the case," smiled Mr. Martin, who had listened to their conversation with interest, "I vote for Puddine. It certainly is good."

Puddine can be had at your grocer's! Order a box today!—Adv.

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

SOMEHOW, it's awfully hard for a man to watch his wife curling her hair and powdering her back—and, at the same time, to think of her as a "citizen."

It isn't so much love of the woman as love of a fight that inspires a man to battle for the heart of a girl who doesn't love him, rather than to marry one who does, and be adored.

Love doesn't fly out of the window when poverty comes in at the door, but when MONEY comes in at the door—especially if it's the wife's money.

No man ever doubted that he could tame a "man-tamer," once he married her, and no woman ever doubted that she could break a "heart breaker," once she landed him.

Somehow the only comfort a woman gets out of married life is the [illegible].

A man is never happy in a love affair—because the moment he thinks he has a woman "just where he wants her," he begins to wonder if he wants her.

A woman will forgive a man more readily for being seen at a prize fight with another man than for being seen at a prayer meeting with another woman. Well, I should SAY so!

Nowadays, a hero is a man who dares to admit that he is not having a gay and delightful time while his wife is away in the country.

Yes, Charmian, always try to be the "guiding star" of a man's life, but never deceive yourself by fancying that you are the whole solar system.

"WOULD you—would you mind," she stammered, "if I went back [illegible] in your car?" [illegible] giggle. [illegible] you, I will not have [illegible] I will not take either," [illegible].

[illegible] ran off and joined the [illegible].

[illegible] when the party was getting into the automobiles, preparatory to starting home, John Brandon spoke in a matter-of-fact way [illegible].

"[illegible] you and Barbara ride home [illegible] Mary [illegible] "Suppose you and Tom [illegible]."

[illegible] Miss Paige declined the [illegible].

[illegible] back seat of John Brandon's car watched the couple [illegible] she chatted with Tom [illegible] floated across [illegible].

"[illegible] mind of it gets cloudy," Barbara said. "I have had all the [illegible] I want."

[illegible] Brandon did not ask for an explanation. That was not his way.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE Greenwood's chauffeur drove faster than did John Brandon. Moreover, he took a shorter route back to town.

[illegible] came about that Miss Cynthia Paige reached home some minutes ahead of her niece. The darkened windows of the house were evidence that her brother was [illegible].

"Won't you come in?" she asked of Daisy and Tom, "or would you prefer sitting on the veranda?"

"We'll sit here until the others arrive," Daisy replied. "Then we must go."

Miss Paige let herself into the house and turned on the light in the front hall.

The first thing her eyes fell upon was the evening mail lying on the table underneath the hat rack. On top of several other envelopes lay a thick letter addressed to Barbara in a masculine hand.

Cynthia recognized the writing as the same that had been on the postcard Barbara had received, and on the letter that had found its resting place in the kitchen stove.

"Where this will go, too!" the spinster muttered between clenched teeth. "Heaven send things come to a climax soon!"

"Things" meaning in this case John Brandon's attentions to her niece.

Cynthia laid the other letters back on the hall table. When Barbara saw them there she would suppose that they comprised all the mail that had arrived since the departure of the picnic party. Delia was instructed to lay on that especial place any letters that came when her mistress was out.

There was no fire in the kitchen, but Miss Cynthia was not to be foiled by such a trifle as that.

The Letter Burned

Depositing the letter in the range she poured over it oil from the kerosene can which she fetched from the pantry. Then she replaced the lid, thrust a lighted match in through the small door in the front of the stove, closed the door quickly and opened all the draughts.

A smothered roar of flames and the odor of burning kerosene told her that her work was accomplished.

Swiftly she went back into the hall. The rest of the picnic party reached the house just as she appeared. Her absence had not been noticed.

[illegible] nights were exchanged on the front veranda and the young people dispersed.

John Brandon lingered long enough to carry in from his car the hamper that a few hours ago had been packed with good things.

"Where shall I leave this?" he queried.

"Just set it there in the dining room, if you please," Cynthia directed.

Barbara was still on the veranda, watching the last carload of guests disappear down the street. Then, with a little sigh, she came listlessly into the house.

Her apathy slipped from her as she spied the letters on the hall table. Darting forward she seized them and scanned the addresses. Then, as quickly, she laid them down, and glanced about to see if her aunt had seen her action.

But Miss Cynthia seemed almost ignorant of her niece's presence—was, indeed, intent only on showing John Brandon where he was to deposit the hamper.

"Right here on the table by the window," she was saying. "Don't bother about it any further. I will take out such food as is left. The other things can be put away in the morning."

She lingered in the dining room for some minutes after John Brandon had left her and gone out into the hall. She would give him time for a word with Barbara—if he wished it.

But the man had little to say tonight. He only held out his hand to the girl and smiled kindly down at her.

"Good night, Bab! You look tired. Go to bed, dear."

She laid her hand in his, but did not speak.

"May I see you tomorrow, perhaps?" he asked.

She nodded. "Yes—if you want to."

"I will send you a line in the morning, and we can arrange then when I may have a talk with you," he went on. "Meanwhile, dear child, try not to think of anything—but go to bed."

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND DuPont

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

DUPONT

VARIATION—None.

RACIAL ORIGIN—French.

SOURCE—Description of locality.

THERE is probably no family name more bound up with the history of the United States than that of Dupont, or DuPont, or duPont, as it is variously spelled, these mere differences in the use of capital letters being the only variations of importance. From the days of the Revolution to the present members of one branch of this family have furnished the United States and other nations with a large percentage of their war munitions and their explosives for industrial use.

The name is French. Literally translated, it means "of the bridge," the "du" being a contraction of "de," meaning "of," and "le," meaning the. The other part of the name comes down in almost unchanged form from the ancient Latin word for bridge, "pons," from which we also have the word pontoon in English.

Surnames in France developed much as they did in England, some from the occupations of the original users of those names, some from the localities in which they resided, some from descriptions of their personal characteristics and some from nicknames. DuPont, of course, belongs to the second classification, and it finds its counterpart in such English names as Bridges and Atbridge, which, however, are not very common in the United States.

Among French names DuPont belongs to the smaller classification, which are founded on Latin and Celtic words. The majority of French names show Teutonic influences.

Cherry Hill Farm

I have always deplored the unsanitary, uncleanly farms from which so much milk comes. I do not see how mothers can sleep quietly, unless they know what kind of a farm it is that is sending their youngsters the daily milk. Then I compare these farms with delightful Cherry Hill Farm, from which a great deal of Hood's Milk comes. This is a beautiful old farm off the Newburyport turnpike. The dairy buildings are immense, white, sunlit, airy. The cow house is clean enough for human habitation. And the tuberculin-tested cows are such a hearty lot. When I knew my milk was produced here, I gave up worrying. Why not settle the milk question with Hood's?

The Two Kingdoms

They used to tell us, back in school, that all things in the world belonged to one of three kingdoms—the animal, vegetable or the mineral. Similarly, when I went to cooking school, my teacher told me to substitute a vegetable fat whenever I could. Perhaps that is why I was such a ready convert to Spredit. Somehow it always appealed to me as a nice idea when I was cooking for my delicate little daughter, to put nice pure butter, made from nut oils, into the muffins instead of the usual animal fats. And Spredit agrees with my Claire. Look at their red cheeks.

And that is why I give my children Spredit—all they want of it.

You should just see how those babies like Spredit!

A Jellied Bouillon

"I'm so tired of just the ordinary things for afternoon tea," she said. "Sandwiches, tea cakes, waffles—we've had them all so often."

"Do you know," I suggested, "I think we ought to try a nice Plymouth Rock jellied tomato bouillon. That's particularly good in Spring when the system calls out for more [illegible]."

We tried it, each of us, the next day. I made a full dozen in the morning in individual little glass moulds. They looked so tempting on the tea tray, those dainty Plymouth Rock Jellies. We had company, who agreed they'd never had an afternoon tea more pleasant. This is a most distinctive bouillon. You should try it.

So Reliable

I have a keen taste. So have my family. That is why, when first we tasted Gossom's Powdered Soups we knew that only the freshest of vegetables; only the nicest of meat went to make Gossom's. For Gossom's Powdered Soups are one of the most nourishing foods I know of. Ask your dealer for Gossom's.

Safe for the Children

There are so many cakes which are not safe for the children. And of these there are many cakes which are excellent of material but too rich. That is why, I think, we mothers specialize in good pound cakes, with fruit and soft white icings. We want a cake nourishing, but not indigestible. And for these very same reasons, that is why I have always been the apostle of Drake's Cakes since the first time I knew them intimately. For they are a delicious confection suitable for dessert at simple suppers, at the same time they are not too sickly sweet, too indigestible to give a mother bad results.

How to Buy Forster's from Your Grocer

When I am out of Forster's Peanut Butter, and wish for more, I take a nice clean glass jar from my pantry, and go to my grocer's. I tell him "Forster's"—but, bless your heart, I do not need to tell him that, as it was my grocer who first recommended Forster's Peanut Butter to me, in preference to all other brands. It is reassuring to watch while my grocer mixes up the peanut butter in the pail to blend properly the nice nourishing oils of the peanuts with the heavier materials. When this is done he weighs me out my order into my glass jar. This is the best way of buying Forster's—much better than in a pasteboard container.

The Guarantee Protects You

"If you are not thoroughly convinced that DANIEL WEBSTER FLOUR has produced the best bread you ever baked after you have used an entire sack of it return the empty sack to the dealer, leave your name with him and the purchase price will be refunded and charged to us."—EAGLE ROLLER MILL CO.

An Economical Food

Have you ever considered that, in these days of H. C. L., one way to lower prices is to eat more bread. Now bread while it has increased is still within the reach of all. It is the cheapest and at the same time, the most nourishing food. That is, if it is the right kind of bread. Which Hathaway's is. When you sample its rich creaminess, and find that it is neither too light nor too heavy; when you admire its golden brown crust and its pure whiteness, you will decide that it is time to eat more of the best food on the market—and the cheapest—Hathaway's Bread. Ask your grocer.

A Matter of Skill

My grocer told me, the other day, a little of the great work that was done before Gorton's Ready To Fry Fish Cakes were made possible for your table and mine. "They certainly gave the matter long care," said he. "First [illegible] they experimented with many kinds of potato to find which went best with their highest grade codfish. Then they made extensive surveys to find how much potato to suit the average taste. They worked many weeks to learn how, always, to pack a uniform product. After this more weeks to learn how to can it to preserve its flavor and texture and color."

"The result is worth all the labor it took," I told my grocer. Let Gorton make your fish cakes for you.

And Don't Forget the Syrup

Griddle cakes and Uncle John's Syrup.

There's a tale for Spring. For the family had been coming to breakfast tired of eggs, never wishing to look a slice of bacon in the face again. And breakfast hung heavily on mother's hands, till she had an inspiration.

"Maybe," said mother, "maybe, darlings all, you would have some morning appetite if I gave you griddle cakes."

"Griddle cakes with Uncle John's Syrup," suggested Sonny.

Breakfast goes off pleasantly now. It's saved.

"And the syrup did it," smiled mother, "good old Uncle John."

For Pickles

I always hated pickles when they were "done with a vengeance." I mean over spiced. I have sometimes had the kind "done with a vengeance." But that was before I knew our spices. Now we always get Slade's, and I wish you could taste our pickle.

They remind you of [illegible] of India, which the traders of [illegible] years ago sent [illegible] patiently across the [illegible]. Myrrh and frankincense and spices in the old phrase. Descriptive—that phrase. For they recall old days and older ways. And Jane and I always remember, when we spice with our Slade's good cloves or cassia, that we are using the modern descendant of those spices of old.

Never Adulterated

One reason why I take pleasure in my Whitehouse Coffee these days is that you do not have to use so much coffee, as the Whitehouse is so good and strong, that you save by always telling your grocer to send you Whitehouse. I must save many dollars a year by buying Whitehouse, the unadulterated coffee.

DECLARE DEAN SLAYER KNOWN

Months of Diligent Work Has Cleared Mystery, Assert Jaffrey Selectmen

East Jaffrey, N. H., June 25.—The selectmen of this town receive letters from persons all over New England and from distant States inquiring about the Dean murder case and nearly every correspondent asks what the officials are going to do about the evidence disclosed. The Boston American also receives many such letters and some of them are emphatic.

"The ears of the responsible officers must burn red hot," remarked Selectman Edward C. Boynton today. "If they read some of these letters they would not be in doubt about the righteous indignation of the people at large over the failure of our State officials, whose sworn duty it is to act, properly to use the volume of evidence at their disposal.

PROSECUTORS HOSTILE.

"The selectmen have gone out of their way and worked nearly two years and our town has gone to considerable expense doing the work of County Solicitor Roy M. Pickard and Attorney-General Oscar L. Young and then they fail to take advantage of it. Instead of thanking us they are unsympathetic and hostile.

"That attitude is the most puzzling feature of the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean. Why can't Pickard and Young work with us? Why not team work in a common cause which is to bring the slayers of a respected and patriotic American to justice? If we are to be criticised for trying to enforce the law and to condemn murder, then we welcome such criticism.

"And our board and the people of Jaffrey serve notice that they will continue to fight until the Dean case has been handled by our public officials in a manner warranted by the evidence in the case, no matter if we have to keep at it ten years. We have already been at it a fifth of that time and we have the courage that springs from truth and justice, and law and order on which principles we stand in this agitation.

KNOW WHERE GUILT LIES.

"And what is more, we know where guilt lies. There isn't any mystery in this murder as certain persons have tried to make out. There was at the start, but it has been cleared away by months of diligent work. If our county and State officials are willing to set aside personal feelings and petty prejudices and tackle the Dean case in a big way it can be cleared up in short order.

"We are in a position to guarantee that. We are not guessing about it. The Federal authorities share our view, because they have followed the same trails we have and they came across the same evidence.

"If the Dean case is permitted to drag as it has for twenty odd months it will be a blot on our State, a public scandal. Why can't our public prosecutors see it in the proper light?

"Why was a Boston detective agency, which for years has been engaged by the State of New Hampshire to do its work in criminal cases, not hired in the Dean case, as it was in the Otterson, Peaslee and other cases?

"Why was evidence which pointed to suspects with political pull scoffed at and insignificant details magnified as against the widow of the murdered man?

S. O. S. SENT OUT.

"There appears to be only one answer—the S. O. S. went out from a certain quarter to protect a certain suspect and another who was an active German agent working against our country and our troops while we were at war, has been automatically shielded by the cloak thrown around the fellow with a pull.

"That is our answer to persons who continue to write from all parts of the country asking why something hasn't been done upon the strength of all the disclosures that have been made by the Boston American for more than nine months in daily articles on the Dean case.

"The Boston American was the only newspaper in New England courageous and patriotic enough to come to our aid in this case and the selectmen and the citizens thank the management of Mr. Hearst's newspaper for the fearless American spirit it has exhibited in this campaign.

"We wish to announce that we have only just begun the fight to avenge the foul murder of Dr. Dean and to uphold the American ideals, expression of which on his part caused hirelings of a common enemy to strike him down in the dark on his own premises.

"If our present public officials decline to act after all we have done, if they fail to heed the plea of outraged American citizens, we shall wait for their successors to act. The Dean case is a very live issue."

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only few cents

You'll laugh. Apply a few drops then lift sore, touchy corns right off. No pain. Yes, magic!

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple! Why wait? No humbug!

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

Stocks Are Up in New York; Money Opens at 9%

TRADING QUIET, GAINS SMALL

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, the morning movement having been upward as a whole. Rails improved in the second hour. Gains were small and the market dull, first four transactions totaling less than 75,000 shares.

Call loans renewed at 9 per cent. Foreign exchange was quiet but steady. Inspiration was the only active copper and it declined almost two points. This was attributed to the cut in its dividend rate.

While a few issues were off at the opening, the majority advanced, and after a rather firm start the market grew stronger. It moved up for a few minutes and then halted, becoming too dull for a while to show any price tendency. Mexican Petroleum was an initial feature, advancing nearly three points before realization caused a halt and reduced its gain. Equipments were the strongest group, Baldwin and American Locomotive quickly showing a point gain. Crucible led steels, which improved as a class. Motors advanced a little and oils averaged a little higher. Rails remained irregular and were dealt in on a small scale. First hour trading was as lacking in interest, however, as at any time this week. It was almost wholly professional. Liberty Bonds had a better tone.

A London cablegram announced that the steamship Olympic sailed today for New York with a consignment of gold, but the amount is not stated. Crop reports were good and statements regarding the railway situation less alarming. But the market is said to be so thoroughly liquidated that it would take something serious to depress it much further. This is one reason why bulls feel confident of a rise soon and the other crowd is inclined to cover. After San Francisco nominations are made speculators will be in a better position to forecast the election. It is probable that there will be a July event of the greatest importance. That is the rate decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission. In some quarters it is looked forward to as the beginning of a broad and continuous advance in security valuations.

BIG PUBLIC UTILITIES
FACING COAL FAMINE

It is stated that some of the big public utility corporations are desperately in need of coal and that the representative of one of these companies informed James J. Storrow of its plight very recently. It is near the danger point. It has been well understood that New England railroads are badly off as regards fuel.

The chief reason for the shortage is not scarcity of labor at the mines, but lack of cars. Up to June 12 bituminous production exceeded that for the corresponding 1919 period by 38,891,000 tons.

New York Bank Clearings

By Universal Service.

New York, June 25.—New York Clearing House Exchanges yesterday were $691,870,134.

RATHER WEAK, VERY DULL

Irregularity marked the list on the Boston exchange at the opening and all the morning, but most stocks were lower. The market was featureless and very dull. Fluctuations were small with few exceptions. Island Creek was strong and comparatively active. Osceola, Boston Elevated and Pacific Mills gained a point on first transactions, while Punta Alegre and Mohawk receded as much on initial sales. Other changes were fractional.

Issues to make small gains included Quincy, United Shoe, Carson Hill and International Products, while fractional losses were sustained by Woolen preferred, Calumet and Arizona, New Cornelia, Ventura, National Leather, International Cement, Root and Van Dervoort and Amoskeag.

The Curb market was as irregular as usual and price changes ruled small. Trading was chiefly in mining shares. The most active issues at the start were Arizona Silver, Black Hawk, Eureka, Mutual Trust and Pilgrim. At the end of an hour Arizona Silver was up 2 cents at 38 cents and Crystal was off 2 cents at 38 cents, Eureka 6 cents at 37 cents and Mutual Trust 4 cents at 47 cents. Black Hawk, Pilgrim and Ophir had recovered early losses.

Copper Will Sell Higher

A Butte, Montana, business man and bankers says: "There is a scarcity of labor in the copper country today. Mines will find it difficult to increase production when demand picks up. Buy Options
On German Marks
Good for Six Months

The fact that German money is selling at about one-tenth of its normal value should convince even the most skeptical that purchases now offer a wonderful opportunity for large profits. Exchange experts predict a sharp advance within the next few months.

10,000 Marks Can Be
Controlled for $50.00
100,000 Marks Can Be
Controlled for $400.00

Buying options limits your risk, as the original cost constitutes your entire liability. The cost of an option involves the use of about one-sixth as much money as would be required to buy marks outright. Should the marks held on option advance to only one-half normal value, the returns on $50.00 would be over $700.00.

Send remittance, stating number of marks you wish to option at above rates. We urge prompt action, as exchange fluctuates rapidly.

Send for explanatory circular.

ALLAN RYAN'S STATEMENT

JUNE 24th, 1920

The latest move is a fitting capstone to the series of official and unofficial acts, each calculated to embarrass, to injure and even to destroy me. It is the hand of Esau, but the voice of Jacob. No longer daring to take the laboring oar, the gentlemen, who failed to batter down my stock and who were frustrated in evading their obligations, decided that they might safely entrust the job to their colleagues. But it is a little late in the day for those who have directed and controlled the action of the committees and the Board of Governors to hide their heads in the sand. If the Governors had any real intention of being fair instead of merely appearing to, why did they not answer a single one of my forty-seven direct, clean-cut questions? Why did they not grant me an open trial with the benefit of my own counsel, as they had theirs? No single charge against me has gone undenied.

If any statement made by me was in fact inaccurate, why did not the Exchange or the Board of Governors deny it over their written signature, as I did? They were willing to record their desires, but they dared not make the findings which I challenged.

I do not intend to weary the public with any further facts. My answer of June 16th stands uncontradicted because it is true. This last attack upon me is only what I foretold and what anyone with a spark of intelligence could have realized from the actions of the Exchange from the beginning.

I dare say they are proud of their handiwork. I am surprised that the Board of Governors did not conclude their proceedings by a vote of confidence in their committees and a resolution of thanks to the Stutz "shorts" for bringing the matter to their attention.

When I stated in my resignation of April 13th that I could not retain both my membership and my self-respect, and that, as I was obliged to lose one of them, I preferred to retain my self-respect, I think my judgment was correct, as borne out by the subsequent developments. I believe that the public has had more than enough of these so-called "trials," which are but star chamber proceedings, where secret intrigues, ruthless autocracy and strong-arm methods are indulged in with impunity. Those who favor such a system may well side with the Exchange. Those who respect justice and fair play will denounce these practices.

That I have succeeded despite the forces arrayed against me appears now to have been a transgression of the rules of the Exchange. While opinions on this may differ, I think it will be generally admitted that I have been guilty of one unpardonable offense: I dared to lift my voice, openly and unequivocally, against a system that is wrong and against the vengeful clique which masqueraded under it. If the Board of Governors think that they have placed a mark upon me by this despotic and prearranged action of theirs, I would only say that the mark, if there be any, betrays its origin.

For such of the injustice worked upon me as is remediable in the courts, I intend in due season to seek appropriate redress. But the blot upon the dignity of the great institution of the New York Stock Exchange, beginning with their first activity in the Stutz matter, has grown to such proportions that it is now indelible.

I am willing to stand or fall on the case as the public has it. The gentlemen of the Board of Governors may think that they have safely and securely delivered a blow without betraying their motives or their instigators. But I believe that no one will be really deceived by it. I believe that the disgrace of the Stutz incident will be placed just where it belongs. The New York Stock Exchange has shown itself a much smaller institution than even its enemies imagined.

(Signed) ALLAN A. RYAN.

The Lever Act and Arresting Merchants

Dangerous Powers of Blackmail, and the Public Misinformed

Copyright, 1920, by Star Company.

In various cities the Department of Justice, acting under the Lever Act, and doubtless with the best of intentions and integrity so far as HEADS of the department are concerned, has been arresting merchants on charges of profiteering and holding them under bail.

It is important that the public should understand what this means.

You read an announcement, made with a great blast of trumpets, that such and such a merchant "has been caught making a profit of one, two or three hundred per cent."

EVERY merchant of any consequence makes such profits on certain lines of goods, and loses money or makes nothing on other lines of goods.

Conducting a big mercantile enterprise is complicated, not easily controlled, but very easily jeopardized by legislation half thought out, or the acts of officials based on whim, or other motives.

As a general rule, large profits are made on luxuries; that is to say, on things not absolutely necessary. The feeling is that those who buy such things can afford to pay the profit. Small profit or no profit is made on necessities. For years before the war practically every store of any consequence sold sugar, for instance, not merely without profit, but at a loss.

One big store in Paris always sold gloves at cost or less, thus attracting the woman who came to buy the gloves to stay and buy other things that DID pay a profit.

It is impossible to say justly that a man who charged $10 for a certain article would be a profiteer and another man an honest merchant if he sold the same article for $7.

It depends on the "overhead expense," and the "overhead" depends not merely on rent or on salaries, but on what it actually cost to do one dollar's worth of business.

You might say, hastily, that, of course, a man paying a very big rent on a very expensive street must charge more for his goods to pay his rent. The assumption is false. If his better location enables him to sell three times as many dollars worth of goods per square foot of store space, he may be able to charge one-half the profit charged by a store in a poor neighborhood and yet make more at the end of the year than the poor neighborhood store.

Every merchant is compelled to arrange his so-called "profits." That is to say, the amount that he adds to his retail prices over and above his wholesale purchase prices, according to the KIND of business he does, the general character of his CUSTOMERS, his location and many other things.

What a man adds to the price does not mean, of course, his profit. Every big merchant charges for certain articles a hundred per cent. more than what he paid for them. But no merchant makes a profit of 100 per cent. or 50 per cent. or even 20 per cent. on the total business that he does.

If a very big store does a business of thirty millions a year, that is to say, if the total amount of money taken in from the public amounts to thirty millions a year, the store could consider itself well off if it had a profit of 10 per cent. of the gross, or three millions, at the year's end. And very few do as well as that.

When you buy goods at a big modern store, you are, of course, not merely paying for the goods delivered to you. You pay for the rent, for the high insurance rates, for the taxes, for a sufficient profit after income tax is deducted, the salaries of clerks, the losses on goods that lose their freshness or timeliness and are sold at a loss.

You disclaim with horror if you hear that a merchant has charged for an article three times what he paid for it. But when you pay fifteen cents for a quart of milk, you pay three times what the farmer got for that milk. And milk is sold every day, as soon as it is received.

The merchant must buy in the early Spring for sale the following Christmas. And he must buy at Christmas time for sale in the Spring. All the cost of buying, the interest on money and all other costs, of course, MUST be added to the price of merchandise.

Each merchant figures out for himself as well as he can what charge will best suit his business, considering the customers with whom he deals. One will make little or no profit on a line of goods upon which another will feel justified in making a big profit, and vice versa.

Successful merchants, on an average, charge profits that at the end of a year are not very far apart for the total. And the difference in profit is often not by any means due to the fact that one man charges more than another for a certain article, but to the fact that one man shows greater genius in buying.

The merchant who is a very good buyer, and who gets for his customers, by quick action or foresight, bargains that another cannot get, feels, PROPERLY, that he is entitled to additional profit.

For instance, there was a great flood at Dayton, Ohio. Men went through the streets in rowboats. One of the first men to appear in a boat was A. L. Ellinger of Chicago, one of the ablest business men in the United States, now, unfortunately, dead. This man, who literally worked himself to death in THE INTEREST OF HIS CUSTOMERS, as soon as he heard of the Dayton flood, went there on a special train, jumped into a boat and went through the streets buying from the owners of local stores their goods lying on the counters BELOW THE WATER.

His keen intelligence told him just what goods he could safely buy, goods in bolts so tightly wrapped that water could injure only

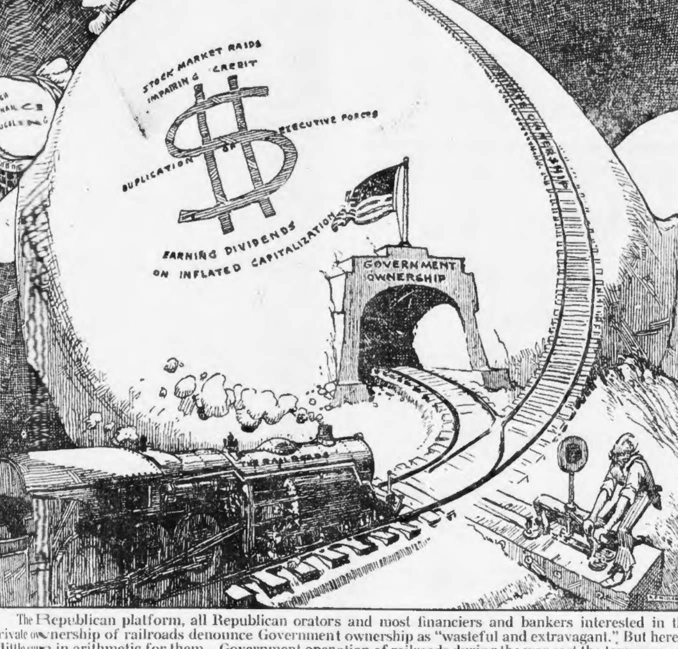
Eliminate the Heavy Grades

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.



The Republican platform, all Republican orators and most financiers and bankers interested in the private ownership of railroads denounce Government ownership as "wasteful and extravagant." But here is a little sum in arithmetic for them. Government operation of railroads during the war cost the taxpayers one million dollars a day to pay the large increases in wages given to employes. But after July, 1918, there were no increases in railroad rates or passenger charges. Railroad transportation was the only commodity that did not thereafter double or treble in price. Within sixty days the Interstate Commerce Commission will have put up railroad rates nearly THREE MILLION DOLLARS A DAY to enable the railroads to operate under private ownership, without any further increase in wages.

More Truth Than Poetry

A Country That Won't Stay Saved

By S. E. KISER

EIGHT years ago I was one who helped bravely
To stay the disaster that seemed to impend,
I heard the loud warnings and heeded them gravely;
We seemed at that time to be nearing the end.
But wisely we rose—I, with millions of others—
And, turning from folly and breaking old ties,
We saved for our children, our wives and our mothers
The most glorious country beneath the blue skies.

FOUR years ago, with a zeal that was knightly,
I came to my country's assistance once more.
Who dared at that time to consider things lightly?
Our danger was greater than ever before!
Can we ever forget the dark fears that assailed us?
I think we were told we would all be enslaved
If wisdom or courage or manliness failed us;
But we heeded again and our country was saved.

ONCE more we are told that the country's in danger;
Doom seems to insist upon hovering near.
The trust that we had for a while is a stranger—
Again we are asked to be trembling with fear.
We may manage, although there is reason for doubting,
To pull through this critical season somehow,
But no matter which side shall have cause to be shouting,
New dangers will threaten us four years from now.

Letters to the Editor

Still for Johnson

Editor Boston American:

Being a unit among eight thousand employes and knowing their attitude as regards the coming presidential election, I feel sure that I may speak for them. The only candidate that the men take to is Senator Hiram Johnson. The workers think it was a rotten deal at the recent convention when the delegates proved to be turncoats who were nothing but hirelings of the capitalists of the country.

The voters of Massachusetts, and especially the laboring class, want Johnson, and if he goes into the race independently, which we want him to do, he will most assuredly receive the support of the people.

BEACHMONT.

Brakeman's Plea

Editor Boston American:

I am an ardent reader of your paper and surely like the way you help the workingman. I was not surprised a bit when I read in the paper this morning about the railroads going out on an outlaw strike again. Now, the government is wrong altogether when they blame it on the I. W. W. You know when the war started the railroad men worked night and day, pretty nearly killing themselves, to help the boys out over there, and over here they never murmured about pay. So after the war was over they asked for a raise and were almost laughed at by the government. They kept to their agreement with the Brotherhood as long as they could stand it. Even a simple-minded man knows that the Brotherhood was asleep when the Esch-Cummins bill was passed, for one of the officials stated so himself at a meeting in Springfield during the last outlaw strike.

We mean to harm no one. We would work our hearts out to help the public to get their goods from one town to another, but we cannot do it on the wage scale that the government allows.

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

Why Electricity Explodes in Air and Does Not Tear Up Ground On Striking the Earth

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Please explain what causes electricity to explode in the air, and why it does not tear up the ground when it reaches the earth. W. B., Goshen, Ind."

IN speaking of the explosion of electricity in the air I suppose that you refer to such phenomena as the electric spark and lightning. These are not explosions in the ordinary sense of that word, although they often produce explosions and explosive effects.

A strong flash of lightning causes a sudden expansion of the air immediately around it, and the displaced air instantaneously rushes back again to fill the momentary vacuum, thus giving rise to waves of sound which constitute the phenomena of thunder.

The atmospheric effect is very like that produced by the sudden expansion of the air around the muzzle of a cannon as the expanding gases rush out of the bore. The roar of a cannon is analogous to the thunder of a lightning discharge. But there is a difference in the manner in which the air is expanded by lightning and by an explosion of gases.

Intense Heat Expands Air

The former, being a current of electricity, or of electrons, resisted in its passage by a non-conducting, or only partially conducting, medium (the atmosphere), forces its way through the molecules of the air and produces an intense heat, which instantaneously expands the air. There may also be other expansive action due to repulsion between the electrified air particles. In the case of an explosion of gunpowder the air is driven bodily aside to make room for the expanding gases.

When a lightning bolt strikes the ground its effects are usually manifested only by the formation of a hole in the earth, the existence of which may entirely escape attention, unless the ground is very moist, when there may be an explosion of suddenly-formed steam, making a little excavation.

Ordinarily the only visible effect of lightning upon the soil consists of a tube called a "fulgurite," which may penetrate many inches or many feet into the ground. These tubes are lined with vitrified mineral substance, due, of course, to the great heat which has sufficed instantly to melt the sand and other substances constituting the soil. Moist earth being a good conductor of electricity, the discharge is rapidly conducted away on all sides, and usually without explosive effects.

When Surface Object Is Hit

But the result is often very different if the lightning strikes an object resting on the surface of the earth, such as a house, a tree, or even an isolated rock. Explosive effects are then very common, if there is any moisture present which can be expanded into steam by the sudden accession of heat.

The trunks of trees are occasionally split from end to end by the instantaneous formation of steam inside them, or, more frequently, their bark is blown off, or huge limbs are torn off and flung far away. There is at least one record (in Poggendorf's "Annalen") of the complete annihilation of a tree by a lightning stroke.

The Lever Act and Arresting Merchants

slightly, galvanized ware, etc. He bought everything he could, sold the goods to his public far below the original cost, yet made a big profit for himself. HE WAS ENTITLED TO IT.

It might have been shown that he sold some of those goods at a profit of 100 per cent., and at the same time gave his customers extraordinary bargains. Under the Lever Act now he could be put in jail for that display of enterprise.

The trouble with the Lever Act is that it undertakes to deal with merchandise as the Government dealt with the sale of wheat, fixing the price absolutely. That price-fixing was unjust to farmers in many regions. Such a system would be absolutely destructive of general business.

A way MAY be found, and if possible should be found, to prevent profiteering.

The problem cannot be solved by saying, "You shall add only so much per cent. to the cost of goods." This would kill enterprise, close many stores, increase retail prices everywhere and stop absolutely all dealings in certain lines.

A bad feature of the present law is the danger of blackmail. There is probably in the United States not a merchant of any consequence that does not habitually sell certain articles for 100 per cent. or more above the prices at which he purchased them, while selling others for a trifling profit or none.

Practically every merchant, therefore, is constantly open to a charge of profiteering and open to blackmail if anybody chooses to practice it.

This is written for the information of the public, which should do its shopping intelligently, read the different advertisements, test for itself the prices, remembering that a man who buys tens of millions in EXPENSIVE goods can sell them more cheaply than another who buys but few expensive goods, and a man who buys and sells tens of millions of INEXPENSIVE goods can sell those more cheaply than they can be sold by the man whose principal dealing is in goods high priced.

The important thing is that people of small means, housewives, mothers with children, should acquaint themselves with VALUES, study advertisements in which merchants compete with each other and go to the stores and study values there.

To say that a man who sells candy on Fifth avenue for $2.00 a pound, the ingredients costing not as much as forty cents, is profiteering may not be accurate.

The greatest jewelry shop in the world may sell diamonds at a price that some small store could not possibly match, not having the buying facilities. If the little store charged you more than the great store for the same diamond, it would not necessarily be guilty of profiteering.

Commerce that has grown up along a thousand paths through thousands of years cannot be covered as regards extortion or profiteering by a law such as the Lever Act, hastily concocted for certain purposes in war and now out of date.

Caveat emptor, "Let the buyer beware," must, with d[illegible] punishment for misrepresentation, fraudulent weights and mea[illegible] etc., continue to be the rule in mixed commercial transactions.
